ELECTRICAL SAFETY

TCA Compliance seminar in Taiwan

TCA and the Electric-Electronic & Environmental Technology Development association (CED) in Taiwan have joined forces to present an Australian regulatory and approvals seminar in Taipei.

The seminar will be held on 04 August 2004 and will cover topics ranging from electrical safety standards and compliance to EMC, Telecoms, Radiocommunications and energy efficiency approvals. Read more

AS/IEC 61010 for laboratory equipment

Manufacturers and exporters of measurement and laboratory equipment can now have their products fully tested to the Australian standard AS 61010 and the international IEC 61010. Exporters can save time and money by showing compliance to the main standard including the country deviations of their target markets. Contact Carl for additional information.

ENERGY EFFICIENCY

Regulatory update

- 01 March 2003: new Energy Efficiency regulations for linear fluorescent lamp ballasts.
- 01 January 2005: revised Minimum Energy Performance Standards (MEPS) for refrigerators.
- 01 September 2005: new MEPS for single-phase room air conditioners.

Contact John for additional information.

EMC

ACA Fact Sheets:

The ACA has released a number of fact sheets with advice for industry and consumers. The fact sheets include information on Telecommunication ports in AS/NZS CISPR 22, and testing of Toys in AS/NZS CISPR 14 and other useful information. Contact Colin for additional information.

New EMC standards:

Many EMC standards have been revised and are now published as AS/NZS CISPR standards. The ACA allows the old standard to be used during the change over period. Some of the change over dates are:

AS/NZS 2064:1997 - expires November 2004

AS/NZS 1053:1999 - expires January 2005

AS/NZS 4051:1998 - already expired

AS/NZS 3548:1995 - already expired

AS/NZS 1044:1005 - expires October 2005
